

From Trend Spotting to Tech Leading

Inside Seven Distribution's Winning Formula

When innovation drives demand and product ranges shift overnight, agility is the secret to long-term relevance. That's where the company thrives. With over 25 years in the mobile accessories and consumer electronics industry, this UK-based distributor has built a reputation for fast sourcing, flexible fulfilment and standout customer service.

Today, Seven Distribution is not just fulfilling orders - it's helping retailers and resellers across Europe, Asia, the Middle East and the US grow smarter, faster, and more competitively. Its latest step forward? Becoming the UK distribution partner for Havit, the global brand trusted by more than 100 million users.

A Business Built on Agility

For Seven Distribution, being a distributor means more than just delivering stock - it's about anticipating trends and enabling customers to stay ahead. From mobile phone accessories and gaming peripherals to smart tech and novelty gadgets, the company's ever-expanding portfolio reflects a sharp instinct for what moves the market.

"We don't just react to trends - we look ahead and bring that vision into the hands of our partners," says David Hyett, Seven Distribution's Managing Director.

This proactive mindset shapes their dynamic supply approach: fast-moving inventory, bespoke sourcing on request, and strong supplier networks with no restrictions.

Bringing Havit to the UK and Beyond

The company's recent partnership with Havit opens up access to one of the most exciting global accessory brands. From audio devices and RGB gaming gear to projectors, smartwatches and power banks, Havit's product range blends quality with innovation.

Smaller, Faster, Smarter: The GaN Advantage

Among the standout innovations in Havit's lineup is its GaN (Gallium Nitride) charging technology - a shift from traditional silicon-based chargers. GaN allows for significantly faster charging, even at high wattages like 65W or 100W, while maintaining a compact form factor ideal for travel or reducing desk clutter.

"Efficiency is key," says David. "GaN components generate less heat and require fewer bulky parts, which means smaller, lighter chargers that run cooler - and last longer."

Havit's GaN chargers also support multi-device charging via USB-C and USB-A ports, distributing power intelligently between devices such as laptops, tablets, and phones. As higher wattage demands and USB-C adoption increase, Hyett sees GaN as a "future-proof solution for both resellers and end-users."

“With Seven Distribution, there are no limits - if you need it, we'll find it, stock it and ship it.”

- David Hyett, Managing Director

He adds: "Prices have dropped dramatically in recent years. You can now get a 33W multiport unit for around £5.25, or even a 100W model for under £20, depending on the port configuration."

By coupling Havit's high-spec product lines with UK-based logistics and account management, the company is helping sub-distributors and retailers tap into a growing market with ease, reliability and speed.

Customer-First, Always

At the core of Seven Distribution's success is a clear customer-first ethos. Whether you're ordering in bulk or sourcing specialist items in smaller volumes, the experience is seamless - thanks to responsive account management, vast stockholding, and the company's commitment to sourcing what others can't.

"If it's not on the shelf, we'll get it," says Hyett. "We've built a business that's agile enough to respond fast - but robust enough to scale with our clients."

This sourcing flexibility extends across refurbished goods, new and used CE and IT products, mobile parts, health and beauty tech, and more - supported by a large UK warehouse and fulfilment operation.

Looking Ahead

As demand for high-quality accessories and responsive supply chains grows, Seven Distribution is well-positioned to support its clients at every step. With forward-thinking partnerships, a future-focused inventory and an unwavering service culture, the company continues to lead from the front.

To explore opportunities, contact:

sales@sevendistribution.co.uk

or visit www.sevendistribution.co.uk

HAVIT